Mr. Chairman I propose to submit my views, briefly, upon the various resolutions reported by the committee on Federal Relations. I propose to do so in that calm, dignified, and independent manner becoming the Representative of a free people. Neither will my purpose be to criticise the views or opinions of gentlemen who have preceded me in this discussion, so much as to define my own opinions; neither will I go back into the history of the past, for the purpose of framing indictments against the rebels for their conduct, or the for their policy, farther than the same may the part of the Federal Government, at the anthority of a de facto Government, from

Such, Mr. Chairman, was the resolution of Congress, passed at a time when the capital of the country was endangered and threatened by the invasion of the Confederate forces, and at a time when it was necessary that the people should be fully advised as to the objects and purposes of a war in which they were called upon to engage, these resolutions were approved by the President, and under these solemn and patriotic declarations thus made, the American peo-New York, in 1839. the Union "with all the dignity and rights of the several States unimpaired?" These, Mr. Chairman, are grave questions, ques tions in which not only is Kentucky interested, but they are questions in which the triends of liberty, constitutional law, and free Governments, in every part of the Americas continent, and throughout the civilized world, arc interested; and to these questions I now propose to address myeelt. Before, lowever, I proceed to investigate these grave questions, permit me to say that I have ever been, and I am now, loyal to the Govern. pose of enforcing obedience to the Constitu ment established by our fathers; and when I say loyal to the Government, I mean the while the people owed allegiance to that Constitution and the laws passed in obedience to that Constitution. The question has been asked, during hese discussions, with emphasis, that if a conflict is to be made between the Governnent and slavery, which will we give up? I answer, with equal emphases, that I will etween the Government and slavery. Sla cry is Constitutional—it is a part of the lovernment. Strike down slavery, and you trike down the Government and the Union. and I can draw no other conclusion from he arguments of those who speak of a conlict between the Government and slavery than that they recognize Mr. Lincoln, and not the Constitution, as the Government, 1 meh are not their conclusions their arguments undoubtedly lead to such inferences, and to them I leave the task of explanation I, sir, am the friend of the negro, and while I eny his equality, either socially, morally, nan, and believe that Divine Providence ias destined him, for wise purposes, to slavery in the United States, and while I thus elieve that the negro was never created or in ended by God himsell to be either, socially or olitically, the equal or compeer of the white nan, yet at the same time, had, or could, any plan be devised whereby they could be sent rom the borders of our land, and thereby emove, this cause of contention between he warring sections of our country, and re tore to our people constitutional law and reedom, wo gentleman would be more ready han myself to make the sacrafice-if sacrafice, it be. But, sir, when we are met by a proclamation from a gentleman, who hap ens to be chief Executive of a free people, who proposes to eradicate a system which nas become so interwoven with our institu ions and form of Government, as that of lavery, and that too in violation of the Cor stitution of the country, the fundamenta law of the land, regardless of consequences then, sir, as a freeman and a citizen. When we shall have paid our proportion of this enormous-war debt when we shall rave submitted to the exactions of the horde of tax gatherers, which the expenses of this war, with all the frauds and corruptions of the army contractors, the Quartermasters, and commissary officers, we shall have bur dens sufficient to bear without being called upon to pay the slaveholder for his property and to furnish homes for those slaves. With the other burdens the Government will im pose upon us, many of us will be unable to provide homes for our own families; and i they are not to be colonized, if they are to oc turned loose in our midst, the equals and companions of the laboring poor against such a policy the non slaveholder of Kentucky protest. If, in this dark hour of our history, we cannot consult with the conserva tive people of New York, Pennsylvania, and the great Northwest, with whom, I ask, can we athiliate? They, like us, have suffered from the calamities of the war. They, like ive up neither. No conflict can come up us, bave given up many a brave and gallant son to perish in this unnatural war. like us, are weeping and mourning for those have enffered in their commerce and trade. They, like us, are interested in the perpetuity of the Union, and in the naviga-tion of the Mississippi. They, like us have all to loose, by becoming a border State to a foreign and alien power; and they like us, are from interest, geographical position, habits and association, interested alike in the com-merce of all the States washed by the waters of that great river; the father of waters. And if in this dark hour of trial we physically, or politically with the white cannot consult with these people, and take eounsel with them for the safety of the republic and our own dearest interest, I know not to whom to appeal. Hence I especially favor the resolution providing for a Missis sippi Valley State Consulting Convention.

In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, let me say that while I do not believe that this Government can be held together by force, yet, at the came time, I yield to no man in my devotion to the Union as our fathers gave it to us. It has been my fortune, sir, to have traveled in every State of this Union, except Maine and California, and I can say, with truth, that I have never passed through a State, a city, village, or town, whether among the bleak and granite hills of New Hampsbire, or the flowery vales of Florida, omac or the banks of the Father of Waters felt proud to know that I stood among my ellow-citizens, and that I was treading the soil of my own "native land." Fod that when my children make the same oilgrimage, they, too, may feel the same emotions that I have felt, and like me offer up a prayer for that country, "esto perpetua. love that country for its hallowed recolictions, for its glorious history for the protection it has given mo and mine at home, and the respect it has secured to us abroad. Our nstitutions have, heretofore, been the aduiration of the world, and the down-trodden and oppressed of every land has been casting his eye and heart upon no other banner than the proud one which floated from the capital of the country of Washington. If, n this mad hour, we let this country go lown, in this horrible struggle of brother with brother, we will only regain our liberlies when "the sun shall slumber in the cloud, forgetful of the voice of the morning; and believing that this Government can only be sustained by peaceful means, and by the virtue and patriotism of the people, I shall, by every humble means in my power, advocate peace, concord, and fraternal good feelng among my fellow-citizens, as, in my judgment, the only sure way of restoring the unity of the States and a permanent form of free Government.

Union County Convention !!

We are requested to state that a county convention of the Union men of the county of Franklin will be held at the Court House, in Frankfort, on Monday, March 16th, appoint delegates to the Union Convention, to be held in the city of Louisville, on the 18th of March, to select candidates for State officers to be elected at the next August election.

This is a matter of vital importance to all the Union citizens of this county, and of the whole State. All the Union men of each precinct in the county are earnestly requested to attend this county convention.

W. P. D. BUSH,

THE REPRESENTATIVE FROM HANCOCK.

We have been informed by gentlemen who were present in the House of Representatives, that the gentleman whose name heads this article, took occasion, in the debate upon the report of the committee on Federal Relations, to denounce, in pretty round terms. the course pursued by this paper in relation to its denunciation of rebels and rebel sympathisers. Well, all we have to say in reply is, that we did not expect commendation from the lips of one whom we believe to be so deeply dyed a rebel as W. P. D. Bush is. In no instance, so far as we can recollect has he ever given a vote, whilst acting in his representative capacity, that tended in the slightest degree, to aid the Government in crushing the rebellion which has been in that our course would meet with his approbation; if we had, we should have expected to meet the scorn and contempt of every loyal man in Kentucky.

The Ball at the "Capital."

Night before last the grand ball given by the Heads of the Departments and the members of the Legislature, took place at the "Capital," and was largely attended, notwithstanding the adverse circumstances surrounding the affair.

The spacious ball-room was comfortably filled, and the scene was one of dazzling beauty. The music of Duncan's Quadrille Band accompanied the intoxicating dance, and beautiful forms and bewitching faces floated around the room, bewildering the gazer, and challenging his admiration at every turn. It was, indeed, a scene long to be remembered, and those who took part in him is October last, construing it, as we do, t it will, many years honce, recall it with feelings of unmixed pleasure and sentimental regard.
